HEALTH PROBLEMS OF TOWNS TO BE DISCUSSED

More Than 700 Delegates Will Attend Conference on Tuberculosis at Louisville.

News-Times Special Service:

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 26.—In the three-day program of the Mississippi Valley Conference on Tuberculosis at Louisville, Ky., Oct. 4, 5 and 6, national health experts recognize a splendid opportunity for workers from the smaller towns and cities to find the best possible help. Health problems of the town will be uppermost.

The rapid growth from the 60 delegates attending the first conference at Memphis four years ago to the 712 registered at Indianapolis in 1915, evidences the fact that this great organization fills a need that workers of these states keenly feel.

Many workers from the central and northern parts of the state are planning to leave Indianapolis Tuesday, Oct. 3, at 3:20 p. m. on the Pennsylvania train, arriving at Louisville at 6:25 p. m. Auto parties will go from Bedford and other points in the state while from the southern half of Indiana the Dixie Flyer and the Mississippi river steam boats as well as the steam lines will be made to contribute to the success of this great conference of anti-tuberculosis workers.

Sixty-five persons have already indicated to the Indiana Anti-Tuberculosis society that they will be there while it is thought that over 200 will ultimately register from this state.

Neighbors say the elder Cory had been drinking and shortly before the shooting attempted to attack his son's wife.

Dr. H. G. Morgan, city sanitarian, believes that the closing of the two schools where the disease was found was largely responsible for the absence of new cases.

WILL CONSIDER STATE
IN SELECTING BANKS

Sec'y M'Adoo Promises to Keep Indiana in Mind While Making His Decision.

News-Times Special Service:

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 26.—William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, and chairman ex-officio of the federal farm loan board, announced Monday that the board had been impressed deeply with the genuine enthusiasm displayed by the citizens of Indiana and gave assurances that the pleas from the state would be given consideration when the time comes to name the 12 cities for federal farm loan banks.

Indianapolis made a strong bid for the bank. Only one other city, Evansville, made application. Evansville was represented by Henry Reis, president of the Old State National bank of that city and D. S. Myer, county agent of Vanderburg county. Most of the civic organizations of the city were represented by men who addressed the board relative to the importance of Indianapolis as a proper place for one of the 12 banks to be established.

The benefits to be derived by the farmer were brought out by F. M. Coons, who has a farm near Morgantown, Ind. He detailed his financial difficulties in trying to make a living off a 160-acre farm. By being able to obtain a federal loan he said he could pay off a short time loan of several thousand dollars and have left enough to make needed improvements. With the expenditure of $1,000 he believes he can increase the value of his farm from $5,000 to $10,000.

INDUSTRIAL RAILROADS
SEEK LOWER RATES

Manufacturers Oppose Railways' Petitions For Right to Make Charge For Switching.

News-Times Special Service:

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 26.—Lower rates for industrial railroads were sought before the public service commission Monday. Railroad companies are protesting against the rates fixed for the six industrial roads of the state. It is argued that the commission's schedule is too high. Manufacturers are opposing the petition of the railroad companies for the right to charge a switching rate on coal shipments. It was pointed out by the railroads that the coal rates to manufacturers are 10 cents lower than to other concerns and the carriers want permission for the switching charge in order to make up for the low rates established by law. The case arose in connection with the American Tin Plate Co. of Elwood.

ELIMINATE ONE ISSUE

Politicians of Michigan Will Not Discuss Prohibition.

News-Times Special Service:

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 26.—There is a prevailing opinion among state house politicians that neither the republican nor democratic state platforms will contain any mention of prohibition and they have serious doubts that the liquor question will play an important part in the state campaign this year.

Gov. Ferris started the discussion when he remarked a few days ago that the liquor question might be injected into the state campaign. He admitted frankly that he did not believe the republicans would discuss the question at Saginaw next Thursday and he was equally frank in declaring that he did not believe prohibition would be indorsed at the state meeting of the democrats at Mt. Clemens Oct. 8.

He did intimate, however, that some of the democratic candidates might champion state-wide prohibition. The governor declines to state whether he favored the placing of a prohibition plank in the democratic state platform.

NEW RATES WOULD AFFECT MICHIGAN

Increase in Charges by Railways Would Hit All of Lower Peninsula.

News-Times Special Service:

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 26.—The Michigan railway commission has received notice of an attempt that the railroads of the Central Freight association have made to increase conference freight rates.

If the rates proposed are approved by the interstate commerce commission the railroads will insist that the safe schedule be placed in effect in Michigan as an interstate tariff.

Hearings on the new schedule are to be held in the capitals of the states interested in Indiana, Ohio and possibly Michigan. Although Kentucky and West Virginia roads also belong to the association, the present plan does not include increases for them.

Michigan shippers have complained that Ohio and Indiana have lower interstate rates than Michigan. The new schedule, instead of lowering the Michigan rate complained of, would boost the Ohio and Indiana rates.

Three Zones. Some increase would fall on this state. Under the plan proposed the lower peninsula would be divided into three zones, A, B, and C. Zone A would be that portion between the southern boundary and the main line of the Michigan Central as it passes through Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Jackson and Detroit.

Zone B would be from the Michigan Central north to a line drawn east and west through Port Huron and Grand Haven, while Zone C would include all the lower peninsula north of that line.

The rates of the Ohio and Indiana roads would be based on what is known as the sixth class rate, the rate for the heaviest stuff moved by railroads.

Zone A being practically the same sort of territory as Ohio and Indiana, would have the same rate, which is now the general rate for Michigan. But Zone B, because of sparser population, higher cost of transportation in winter time, etc., would have added to the sixth class rate one-half per cent per hundred pounds. Zone C in which the snows are still heavier and the transportation problem harder and population still less would have added a full one cent per hundred pounds.

Would Hit Lower Michigan. It would thus be seen that should the interstate commerce commission approve the plan offered, increases would at once hit all of Michigan in Michigan Central main line.

The shippers in Ohio and Indiana are preparing to put up a big fight against the increases under the new plan and hearings are to be held shortly at Indianapolis and Columbus. If the Michigan men demand it, hearings will be held in Lansing.

The new tariff is scheduled to go into effect Dec. 1, but there is every indication that it will be suspended until the hearings are held, and then after finally decided by the interstate commerce commission.

Announcement has just been issued to all members of the congregation of the Holy Cross by the superior general, Very Rev. Gilbert Francois, C. S. Father Legrand has been very active in missionary work both in Japan and India, and earlier in his career had served as superior of Scholasticates of the Holy Cross congregation in Angers, France, and later in Rome.

ARSON PLOT FOILED

Efforts Are Made to Burn Church Tabernacle.

News-Times Special Service:

BAY CITY, Mich., Sept. 26.—Additional watchmen aside from several extra policemen, were put on at the Bromley tabernacle on Water st. as a precaution against a repetition of two attempts to burn the building, where evangelist campaign meetings are being held.

The arsonists arranged rags in the pipes leading from one of the stoves, so tied that when they should burn off the draft and breeze would carry the blazing stuff under the eaves. The smoking of a stove caused Rev. B. H. Shaddock, one of the party, to investigate. The plan was repeated, but discovered before the stove fire was kindled.

When the main part of the building was erected at a bee of union carpenters who donated their services, a carpenter reported that a man had told him that he would pay the expense of burning the tab-
